Only such repairs as were thought necessary have been made in the Building during the year. Complaints are still made about the size of the stage and the condition of the scenery. In order to preserve what scenery there is there should be some work done on it as well as general repairs to the Building itself.

Report of Board of Health.

The year just passed has been an exceptional one in the great number of cases of contagious diseases which have been present.

A few cases of whooping cough occurred at West Lebanon.

There have been 8 cases of typhoid fever, 6 of which were directly attributable to drinking river water in one of the factories.

During June, July and August there were not far from 300 cases of measles, with no bad results in any case.

With the exception of a little more than 3 months during the summer, scarlet fever has been in town the entire year. And some during the months when it did not appear on the surface there is little doubt but it was present, for when it was next discovered children were found attending school while in an advanced stage of the disease.

This carelessness on the part of some parents, together with the extremely mild type of the disease which has prevailed, accounts in large part for the widespread epidemic.

There were during the year 78 cases in 39 families, with no fatality, and no case that even appeared dangerous. These many cases, largely among the laboring people, has, of necessity, been a great expense to this town, for, while the Board has tried to manage as economically as possible, yet in many cases the wage earner has had to be quarantined with the family, and the law makes it plain that in such cases it becomes the duty of the Board of Health to help such families to the necessities of life. A quarantine is for the protection of the public, the burden of which must be borne in part by the town, and not wholly by the individual.

It is to be hoped that in the future the people will take a more intelligent view of the matter and report to their physician any case which is at all suspicious, and, if in quarantine, to cooperate with the officials in an endeavor to rid the town of the disease.

There have been a few deaths from tuberculosis, though that disease appears less frequently than formerly, probably on account of the public becoming educated to see the need of better ventilation and fresh air in their homes.

A few cesspools and outhouses still remain a menace to the health of the people, which we expect to see remedied the coming summer season.
